PARK DRIVE

CANARY WHARF

Over the last three decades, from early inception to construction in the 1980s, Canary Wharf has grown to become home to modern architecture, a hub for business and a place to enjoy. It has been evolving and diversifying and we're building and designing a space that's not only built to last, but to take us to the next level of smart working and living. We have established ourselves as builders of premium quality commercial and retail space and now, for the very first time, we are proud to launch our latest development, Canary Wharf Residential.

Our residential proposition will offer a unique opportunity to live in one of the most desirable, secure and well-connected private Estates in Europe, especially with the arrival of Crossrail in 2018, making commutes to the West End, the City and London's airports easier and faster than ever.

Surrounded by an abundance of high-quality shops, restaurants and leisure facilities, including one of London's largest roof gardens at Crossrail Place, our first residential development will provide an exceptional waterside living environment.

We look forward to welcoming our first residents to 10 Park Drive.

Sir George Iacobescu CBE

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
Canary Wharf Group plc

CANARY WHARF ESTATE'S FIRST RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT

Designed by world-renowned architectural practice Stanton Williams, 10 Park Drive is the first of the new residential developments to be built on the Canary Wharf Estate. It sits adjacent to South Dock, linked to the water by beautifully landscaped gardens and parks.

The building's 42 storeys of studios, one, two and three-bedroom apartments offer extraordinary views of the city and the ever-changing river.

Its design combines bright spaces with careful detailing – along with a sophisticated private Residents Club and Sky Terrace in which to relax and watch the world. Those that live at 10 Park Drive will be joining a dynamic new neighbourhood with an enormous variety of shops, cafés and restaurants, as well as a rich programme of exhibitions, performances and events.

Its residents will enjoy excellent transport connections. Road, light-railway, underground and Crossrail links are all within easy reach, alongside the regular Thames boat service, and airports including London City and Heathrow. The Estate's dedicated Canary Wharf Concierge will also be on hand to simplify busy lives and provide a wide range of services and privileges to enrich the lifestyle of every resident.

Canary Wharf takes its name from the riverside warehouse opened by Fruit Lines in 1937 to handle fruit imports from the Canary Islands and the Mediterranean.

CONNECTIONS

Canary Wharf and 10 Park Drive have remarkable transport connections. With road, light-railway, underground and river links, all of London is close at hand. The Jubilee Line and Docklands Light Railway already provide a wealth of efficient travel options across the capital.

The new Crossrail network will bring even more destinations within reach. Canary Wharf will be one of the largest of the 40 Crossrail stations. The 100km line stretches from Reading in the west to Abbey Wood in the east. For more serene transportation, the river bus service is a gem in London’s transport crown. Thames Clippers operate regular, high-speed catamarans to whisk you from Canary Wharf Pier to commercial and leisure destinations throughout the city.

The gardens on the top of the new Crossrail Station feature many species of plants indigenous to countries visited during the 19th century by trading ships that used the docks around Canary Wharf.

The Docklands Light Railway connects Canary Wharf and Heron Quays stations with the City of London’s Bank and Tower Gateway stations, as well as London City Airport, Stratford to the north and Greenwich to the south.

The underground network provides access to all major lines across the capital, including St Pancras International and its rapid rail service to continental Europe. International travellers will be able to get to Heathrow airport in just 39 minutes from Canary Wharf’s Crossrail station. London City, the only airport inside the capital, is a 10-minute taxi ride, with flights to numerous destinations, from New York, Milan and Paris, to Ibiza, Madrid and Venice.

CANARY WHARF'S MAIN CONNECTIONS

Canary Wharf is a key hub for the capital's extensive transport network. It is just minutes from London City airport and conveniently located for the capital's other major airports. From 2018, the new Crossrail service will provide simple, swift travel to even more destinations.

Art can amaze, entertain and entice. It nourishes the spirit, enriches the senses and challenges the mind. Canary Wharf has always understood the important role art can play in enhancing the quality of the public realm. The Estate continues to commission engaging and important works. Canary Wharf is a leading cultural destination. It hosts one of the UK's largest collections of publicly accessible art and is home to over 65 permanent sculptures and numerous works in other media by over 50 major artists. Its roster, with the likes of William Turnbull, Bruce McLean, Catherine Yass and Lynn Chadwick, includes many leading international artists.

A continuing exhibitions programme ensures that artworks on permanent display are refreshed with themed programmes and touring displays. Successive exhibition programmes present major figures from the art world such as Sir Anthony Caro, Phyllida Barlow and Phillip King. Thoughtful landscaping at Canary Wharf provides a tranquil counterpoint to the bustle of vibrant city living. With almost 20 acres of parks, roof gardens, fountains, tree-lined plazas, waterways and walkways, it's one of the greenest developments in London. Formal garden squares, inviting waterside settings, creative installations, meadow-edged paths... all have their own special atmosphere, and offer a variety of outdoor 'rooms' and spaces for relaxation. At night the mood changes again, when dramatic lighting creates an exciting backdrop to an evening out.

In warmer months, a profusion of blooms delight the senses. In winter, careful planting provides an ever-changing gallery of natural forms. As the built environment evolves, so does the landscape. The latest addition is the amphitheatre, an exciting performance space set in the stunning roof garden of Crossrail Place.

Canary Wharf has its own personality, sense of confidence and a special character. It's a colourful, cultural environment that changes week to week

The combination of a vibrant neighbourhood, great apartments, generous views, and wonderful social spaces and gardens is hard to find elsewhere under one ownership

Set on a wonderful waterfront location 10 Park Drive affords panoramic views across South Dock, Canary Wharf and the Thames beyond. It is a remarkable addition to Canary Wharf's already globally recognised skyline. Careful attention to detail and the use of high-quality tactile materials produce well-proportioned and naturally bright, apartment interiors. Each apartment is deliberately designed as a highly individual space. Daylight and sightlines have influenced every aspect of the design. Private gardens at the base of the building overlook the park, the boardwalk and the magic of the water. Enticing common areas connect with vibrant public spaces to create a dynamic living environment.

10 Park Drive is set to take its place at the head of a flourishing residential neighbourhood.

In the late eighteenth century, Canary Wharf was a thriving port and West India docks the world's biggest building project.

Q&A

Internationally renowned architectural practice Stanton Williams has designed 10 Park Drive and its linked residential building with views of the surrounding water and Canary Wharf cityscape.

Our design aims to capture the unique spirit and materiality of the Wharf with an elegant and powerful sculptural form. A structure that will engage at a human scale, welcoming at street level, and at the same time exude a feeling of solidity and permanence, clearly signifying the shift from the polished commercial to the rooted residential.

Paul Williams

Stanton Williams' London Studio

Q What is special about the location?

A Canary Wharf is unquestionably a beautiful waterside setting. It's unique — unlike any other location in London. There's the potential convenience of living and working in the same place, and for those that commute, it has excellent transport links right across London. And, of course, the apartments capture many different spectacular views over Greenwich, the City and the river.

Q How did you approach designing a residential tower alongside some of Europe's best-known commercial buildings?

A We were really excited to be given the opportunity to design a significant residential building adjacent to an existing commercial environment. The tall and impressive glass and steel structures at Canary Wharf have a unique quality, and although it was important for our scheme to tie-in with that skyline, the building also needed to have a very different visual aesthetic that reflected the transition to residential. We felt there needed to be a subtle shift from the commercial to the residential area in order to create a new sense of place, a changed visual reference from the Wharfs' working environment.

Although separated by a small stretch of water, we felt this change in character, that is a departure from metal and glass, would be important to give people a sense of arriving into a different environment, a different world you could say!

It had to be a structure that would engage on a human level and be welcoming at street level. We looked at a number of organic materials and eventually chose reconstituted stone as our primary material, which complemented and reinforced our design aim to create an elegant structure that conveys a sense of solidity and protection.

Q Can you summarise the main elements in your design?

A 10 Park Drive building has two main components. A 42-storey apartment tower combines with a 13-storey apartment block in a single structure. The volumes are linked at ground floor by a connecting canopy, which creates a generous double height lobby, with internal planting, known as the Wintergarden. This glazed space opens out onto a beautiful, south-facing private garden overlooking the dock.

Q How does 10 Park Drive relate to neighbouring buildings?

A Herzog & de Meuron's tower design had already been conceived when we were commissioned, so its presence informed our thinking from the start.

We designed 10 Park Drive so the two structures would complement rather than compete with each other. The façade of Herzog & de Meuron's tower is visually very active, so our building is intentionally quieter and more horizontal in emphasis. The south-facing private landscaped garden between the two buildings helps to unify these very different structures at ground level.

Q What feelings do you think living in the building will inspire in residents?

A We have focused on creating calm, inviting 'light filled' living and communal spaces that will engage the senses and help foster a strong sense of community. We believe we have created an elegant and uplifting building that will, without question, be beautifully detailed using high quality finishes.

Q How would you describe the 'sense of arrival' at 10 Park Drive?

A We loved the idea of a heightened sense of arrival, crossing over a bridge from a vibrant and energetic Canary Wharf and entering into the calm of a residential building situated on the edge of the dock. The immediacy this juxtaposition creates is intoxicating, and there will be nowhere else quite like this in London. Our design aims to capture the unique spirit and materiality of the Wharf with an elegant and powerful sculptural form. A structure that will engage at a human scale, welcoming at street level, and at the same time exude a feeling of solidity and permanence, clearly signifying the shift from the polished commercial to the rooted residential. We want people to feel uplifted as they move around both the exterior and interior of the building and engage with the surrounding gardens, water, and views across London. Creating a sense of place, a sense of wellbeing and belonging for residents.

Q How do common areas interact with the private spaces in the overall design?

A The private garden positioned between the two buildings will be magical — an oasis in the heart of the city. Even for residents who don't choose to use it regularly, its strong visual presence will bring a great spirit and calm and sense of wellbeing to the place. To complement the lower garden, we have designed a large south-facing sky terrace garden on the 13th floor with bookable facilities and free use of shared spaces.

Q What is it about 10 Park Drive that will make it a special place to live?

A The combination of a wonderful location, strong transport links, vibrant community, great apartments with wonderful social spaces and gardens, and generous views is hard to find elsewhere in London.

Q What makes the apartments special?

A Quite simply the space, light and material that will be present. Some people prefer more enclosed spaces while others want broad vistas and a huge expanse of glass. We have specifically designed the building to provide a wide range of apartment types to provide for these different tastes.

Q How have you incorporated light and space?

A The presence and use of natural light is fundamental — from the minute you walk into the building to the time when you open the door to your apartment. The last thing we wanted was a hotel-type experience with anonymous, closed-off corridors as you move through the building. There will never be a sense of 'being captured' in the building. Whether you are in your apartment or waiting for your lift there will be an abundance of daylight as well as beautiful views. Our aim was to create an experience where you are constantly engaging with your surroundings as you move around the building.

Q How does your approach contribute to the creation of a new residential community at Canary Wharf?

A I don't think we've ever seen it in isolation. Both 10 Park Drive and the Herzog & de Meuron tower will be the first in a series of planned residential and mixed-use buildings. They will, of course, set the scene because they will be the first buildings you encounter when you leave the established office area of the Canary Wharf Estate. However, it's the first stepping stone that will eventually take you through to a new, vibrant and substantial new district, stitched together by a sequence of public gardens, squares and riverside walks, part of a wonderfully ambitious and visionary masterplan.

Canary Wharf Group's vision is to deliver a new neighborhood. Landscape architects Wirtz International have created a rich, engaging environment that respects the cityscape and provides both public parks and gardens alongside more intimate, characterful spaces for residents. Guiding their design has been the concept of 'the journey home' — the path residents take from public to personal space. Both hard and soft landscaping is used to differentiate between these spaces, easing the transition between them.

Sophisticated use of lighting is used to signify a variety of different domains. In public spaces it's primarily functional, while in the private gardens and terraces, it is used to create drama and atmosphere. Landscaping at this level is as much about how people feel as what they see.

Canary Wharf has one of the UK's largest collections of Public Art, including works by Lynn Chadwick, William Turnbull, Bruce McLean and Jennie Moncur.

Landscape architects Wirtz International have created a beautiful and tranquil environment. Their carefully considered landscaping and meticulous attention to detail continue the very high standards that pervade the Canary Wharf Estate

An abstract painting featuring a complex interplay of colors and textures. The composition is dominated by a large, central area of deep blue and purple, which appears to be a dense, layered structure. This central area is surrounded by a thick, dark red or maroon border. The overall effect is one of intense, swirling energy, with the colors blending and separating in a way that suggests movement and depth. The texture is highly visible, with many fine, intersecting lines and brushstrokes that create a sense of tactile richness.

REFINED INTERIORS BY MAKE

Make, an internationally renowned studio, is responsible for the interiors of 10 Park Drive. The Studio has designed interiors for hotels, offices and high-end residences all over the world.

Stanton Williams has designed a beautiful building with strength of concept and considered materiality. Our task at Make is to capture this vision, from the grand scale of the building, and integrate it down to the smallest detail.

Tracey Wiles
Partner, Make

Make's London Studio

Q How do you approach the design of interiors?

A We design interiors by drawing inspiration from the architecture of the building and its surrounding context. This allows us to create a holistic and coherent experience for the residents; a choreographed journey from street to apartment.

Q From where did you draw your inspiration for 10 Park Drive?

A Stanton Williams has designed a beautiful building with strength of concept and considered materiality. Our task at Make is to capture this vision, from the grand scale of the building, and integrate it down to the smallest detail.

Q Do you think interiors can influence mood and sense of wellbeing?

A This is absolutely at the centre of our whole approach. These should be calm, uplifting spaces. But we also need to bear in mind with residential buildings that we are creating backdrops for people's lives. We want to engage them without intruding.

Q How have you brought the architecture into the interiors?

A Working closely with Stanton Williams, we wanted to harmonise the exterior and interior of 10 Park Drive, in order to create a visually calm and cohesive living environment. We interpreted the architecture of the building as a solid block, with carved out recesses articulated by fine metal detailing and this is visually echoed throughout the interior from the macro to the micro, from the materials through to the colour palette.

Q What do you believe is important to people within their apartments?

A Apartments are very individual spaces. With 10 Park Drive, we wanted to design apartments that would provide an elegant yet discreet canvas on which residents could stamp their own personalities.

Q Do your designs accommodate different lifestyles?

A The interiors of 10 Park Drive are designed to be flexible to suit the residents' needs and requirements. Each apartment can be customised, with sliding doors facilitating either an open plan layout or cellular layout, depending on the users' preferences.

Q How do you think people will occupy these apartments?

A We have thought about this a lot, from the scale, proportion and hierarchy of the rooms, through to the minor details and how things will operate on a day-to-day basis. Every aspect has been considered, from where you plug your kettle to the soft close of a door.

Q Have the views influenced your layouts in the apartments?

A Natural light is fundamental to the overall design. We've designed each apartment so that the typically active spaces – the kitchen and living areas – will benefit most from the spectacular surrounding views.

Q How are you dividing the spaces?

A The beautiful joinery that divides up the living spaces creates a more cohesive layout and reinforces the sense of quality and craftsmanship in the scheme.

Q How have you approached the lighting scheme?

A We introduced integrated lighting schemes in our earliest sketches. We have worked to combine both ambient and task lighting to create a beautiful and functional environment.

Q Have you adopted specific palettes?

A There are two basic colour palettes – one light and one dark. The idea is that the residents should be able to imbue the space with their own personalities and both colour palettes enable this.

Q What about your approach to materials?

A The base materials visually echo the exterior of the building. We enriched the space palette with the warmth of timber, the elegance of porcelain, and highlighted the champagne metal detailing.

We are extremely proud to be involved in Canary Wharf's first residential development. Canary Wharf has taken a thoughtful approach to how this development will create a truly mixed-use community. We are delighted to be a part of it

Katy Ghahremani

Partner, Make

Q Can you speak about your approach to the kitchens?

A We believe the kitchen should be celebrated as a central part of life and so all the apartments at 10 Park Drive have open plan kitchens. These have been designed in linear and peninsula styles that come in a range of sizes and in a very high-quality finish.

Q What is your approach to bathroom areas?

A Our experience in designing hotels has enabled us to reinterpret the function of the bathroom in order to enhance the users' experience. Taking a considered approach to the form and function of these spaces allows us to transform the daily ritual of bathing.

Q How are the services integrated into the scheme?

A This is something we are really passionate about. We go to great efforts to ensure that services are correctly located, integrated, and, where possible, concealed. On 10 Park Drive, extractor hoods are integrated into either the ceiling or cabinets, underfloor heating is installed throughout, with separate control for the bathrooms, and power sockets are located to ensure maximum flexibility for the resident.

Q Does your integrated approach extend to communal spaces?

A We feel that it is very important for the residents to feel connected to the whole building, not just their own apartment. In the communal spaces we are applying the same concept and similar materials as the rest of the interiors. Wherever you are, whether you are sitting in the library, walking through the ground floor lobby or on the promenade outside, it should always feel like home.

360° panoramic view from the New Phase

From the apartments at 10 Park Drive the views are consistently engaging. With the parks and gardens, the ever-changing waters of the docks or the bustling streets below, the vibrant world of Canary Wharf always fascinates, whatever the time of day or night. At the higher levels, the vast panoramas of the capital, its river, lights and landmarks provide constant theatre all year round.

Canary Wharf Contractors (CWCL) manages and delivers all of Canary Wharf Group's construction projects. They are internationally recognised for the quality of their construction and innovation and take enormous pride in setting new quality benchmarks on every project. They are exemplars in the industry for the safety of their workforce, their environmental impact on surroundings and the sustainability of their developments.

The construction of high-rise buildings is CWCL's speciality. Since 1990, they have built 50% of all buildings in London over 120m tall and their substantial experience extends to also delivering complex infrastructure projects, public realm, rail stations, retail malls and performance venues.

At Canary Wharf, building over 25 million gross sq. ft on such a small footprint as well as simultaneously creating the infrastructure of roads and associated utilities, public transport connections, pedestrian circulation and parks, has provided both a challenge and an opportunity. The experience gained is being put to good use on current and future development projects at Canary Wharf and elsewhere in London. CWCL built 20 Fenchurch Street and will construct the Shell Centre redevelopment.
